

ENAS/NANAS CONFERENCE 2025

Lleida, 9-11 Abril 2025

Ageing, Old Age and Intergenerational Relationships through Narrative and Practice: Challenging Ageism

Held at the Universitat de Lleida, Catalonia, (Spain), “Ageing, Old Age and Intergenerational Relationships through Narrative and Practice: Challenging Ageism” is the fourth joint conference organised by ENAS and NANAS and the sixth ENAS Conference. It invites researchers, writers and scholars within age and ageing studies to share their research and establish a fruitful dialogue around “ageism and intergenerational relationships” as well as other related topics. Intergenerational exchanges may contribute to deconstructing negative cultural narratives of ageing, creating more inclusive meanings of old age, and advancing social change by promoting a better understanding of the life course and, thus, providing opportunities for mutual support and care. Moreover, promoting generational dialogue and cooperation may be the first steps to building a sustainable society in which interdependence among generations is regarded as a source of richness rather than as a form of exclusion.

Organised over 3 days, from 9 to 11 April 2025, the members of research Group Dedal-Lit - CELCA welcome you to explore our historical campus, enjoy the vibrancy of our city and establish lasting connections with colleagues within the age and ageing studies field.

Conference link: ENAS & NANAS 2025 – Ageing, Old Age, and Intergenerational Relationships through Narrative and Practice: Challenging Ageism \(enasnanaslleida2025.com\) [<https://enasnanaslleida2025.com/>]